Town welcomes the Torch

TENS of thousands of people lined the streets of Northampton on Monday as the town played host to the arrival of the Olympic Torch in the county.

Huge crowds turned out to see the once-in-a-lifetime event as a succession of torch bearers in their distinctive white dress made their way across the town, from Weedon Road down through St James and up into the town centre, circling the Market Square before running up a packed and cheering Abington Street and then continuing its route out of Northampton via Bedford Road.

Organisers said more than 40,000 people watched the Torch as it passed through the town.

The runners included young sporting talent, Hollie Coupland, aged 16, 23-year-old Harry Barrett, who still coaches rugby despite having been diagnosed with a spinal cord tumour and Paul Davies, from the Always a Chance charity set up in the wake of the killings of James Kouzaris and his friend James Cooper in Florida last year.

Later the torch moved to the north of the county visiting Kettering, Wellingborough, Corby, Isham and Geddingdon.

Mayor Roger Conroy joined a crowd of thousands outside the Guildhall to watch the torch pass through the town centre on Monday morning.

He said: "It was absolutely brilliant and I think it was just what Northampton needed."

"The town put on a really good show and everyone had a really good time, despite the weather."

Among the crowd at the Guildhall was the MP for Northampton North, Michael Ellis, who delayed a trip to the House of Commons so he could see the torch pass through his home town.

He said: "It was magnificent and it really showed Northampton in its best light."

"It was wonderful to see so many thousands of people line the streets to watch the procession."

"And I saw dozens of people running from one street to the next to keep up with the torch, which was fantastic."

Education winners

PUPILS, teachers and headteachers have spoken of their pride at gaining a Chronicle & Echo Education Award in recognition of their hard work.

Nearly 300 guests packed into the Great Hall, inside Northampton's Guildhall to see 10 winners from eight categories collecting trophies for their outstanding contribution to the success of the town's schools.

The awards ceremony, now in its fourth year and sponsored by Northampton-based acs office solutions company, saw a panel of judges putting forward more than 30 finalists in the 2012 event with the audience giving huge rounds of applause and cheers as the winners were called onto the stage.

Secondary Pupil of the Year winner Alessandro Sorrentino, from Kingsthorpe College, said: "I am very happy and shocked at the same time. I never thought I would have a chance to win the award, particularly with the quality of the competition."

"I wouldn't have got to this stage without the help of my school."

Meanwhile, Unsung Hero winner, assistant head Francesca Shears, from Northgate School, thanked the public for voting for her. She said: "I'm absolutely over the moon."

The evening began with a singing performance from Stagecoach Northampton performing arts school and speeches from guest speakers.

Alex Hopkins, director of customers, communities and learning at Northamptonshire County Council, told the audience: "Celebrating the best in our schools and children is a big deal."

Public consultation over development

RESIDENTS of St James in Northampton are being urged to attend a public consultation on Saints plans to redevelop Franklin's Gardens.

Members of the club's management and stadium design team will be at the Heroes Lounge at the ground between 5.30pm and 10pm on Thursday, July 5, and again between 10am and 2pm on Saturday, July 7, to discuss the proposed re-development of the North Stand with residents and businesses.

Graham Croucher, secretary of the residents' association, said he encouraged everyone living in the area to attend one of the meetings so they could put forward their views on the plans.

He said: "I'm looking forward to seeing the plans and I would urge people to go along a view the display.

"The feedback the residents' association has been that some people are worried about the effect on parking in the area."

Saints vice-chairman Tony Hewitt, who is managing the development on behalf of the club, said he wanted the Saints to stay in St James for "many more years".

He said: "This is why we believe it is important to give residents and members of the business community the opportunity not just to see the plans for themselves but to have the ability to contribute to the planning process and discuss their thoughts with the club's management and design team as well."

Residents can also give their feedback at www.northamptonsts.co.uk

Sex crimes drink link

SEXUAL offences fuelled by alcohol are worse in Northampton than most areas of the country, figures show.

The Local Alcohol Profile for England shows there were 43 sex crimes in the town in 12 months where either the victim or the alleged criminal were drunk.

Along with Corby, Northampton was rated as significantly worse than the national average.

Northamptonshire Police said yesterday it would analyse its own data, but emphasised that the offences were likely to have taken place during nights out rather than rapes by strangers, which were "very, very low".

Patterns of alcohol-fuelled sex offences suggest they are more likely to happen at times when people have more money, such as pay days, and are therefore more likely to go out.

Christmas has been recognised as a peak time in the past, but officers have also noticed a spike during summer months in recent years.

Detective Chief Inspector Steve Lingley said: "Alcohol plays a part in many crimes, like fighting and domestic abuse because it makes people more vulnerable,

"But we can infer patterns. Nicer evenings mean people tend to stay out longer and drink more."

Olympian launches

Former 400m runner Derek Redmond has officially launched an Olympic torch parade which includes visits to every school in Northampton.

The 46-year-old, who was famously helped round the track by his father after he pulled his hamstring in the 1992 Barcelona Olympics, gave an inspirational speech to more than 500 primary school children at The Racecourse, before the torch procession headed off to Fairfields Special School.

The battery-operated torch will be carried by pupils to all 68 schools in Northampton during the next two weeks and plaques commemorating each school's involvement will be displayed at each site.

Mr Redmond said: "I think this is great for the kids and it is always nice to attend an event like this."

"I talked to them about my experience of the Olympics and told them that it is the best sporting event in the world.

"The 1992 Barcelona Olympics is something I will never forget."

"Even though they do not live in London, the Olympics being in this country still offers a fantastic opportunity for these kids."

"Everybody can get involved with the spirit of the event, especially as it is now only one month away."

Pushy Salesmen? Not With Cloudy2Clear!

Cloudy2Clear Windows, the Northampton based window repair company, are revolutionising how homeowners view double glazing in our area. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as customers take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Trevor Skidmore, is convinced that much of his success is down to the fact that he employs tradesmen, not salesmen. 'If you think about it, who wants to deal with the dreaded double glazing salesman?

The thought of going through the whole tedious process of haggling with someone who arrives at 7 at night and then camps themselves in your house until midnight is not one most people find attractive. A lot of our customers are elderly and can feel very pressurised by sales tactics. We set out from day one to be very different.'

Trevor makes very sure his customers are looked after right from the first time Cloudy2Clear arrive at the house. 'All our staff arrive in uniforms so the customer knows who they are and I insist that they wear plastic overshoes to protect the customers carpets. We then measure the windows that have a problem and price the job up there and then, which usually takes around 15 minutes. If the customer wants the job done we'll arrange installation but if they want to call us back later that's fine. What I don't want to hear from any of my customers is that they felt pushed into anything. It's just not our style.

We're trying to give the glazing industry a reputable face and the evidence of my order book tells me my customers like our approach.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Trevor a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be more than happy to help!

A brilliant festival

The Mayor of Northampton has described a week-long festival of learning as a "brilliant event" which has united all the schools in the town.

More than 2,800 students took part in the festival this week which has celebrated and shared learning and teaching experiences between the 69 schools in Northampton.

The event, which launched at Weston Favell C of E Primary School on Monday, included a musical performance at the bandstand in Abington Park and animation workshops and art displays in the Grosvenor Centre, Weston Favell Centre, Central Library and the Royal & Dern-gate. At Weston Favell, pupils from 16 schools attended a ceremony which included a display of maypole dancing and a balloon release.

Roger Conroy, the Mayor of Northampton, who attended the event, said: "I think it is a brilliant way to bring all the schools together. The amount of events going on in the town is incredible."

"I think it is a unique way of bringing all the schools in the town together."

Jill Ramshaw, headteacher of Weston Favell C of E Primary School, said: "I think it is really good for the children to see we are not working in isolation and shows that all the schools in the town are part of a community."

Jane Herriman, joint chairman of the Northampton Town Schools Area Improvement Partnership and principal at The Duston School, said the festival had been organised to celebrate the learning in all the schools in the town.

She said: "The festival is all about promoting working together in partnership and valuing the learning in each school."

"The festival will give Northampton students a platform to showcase their achievements in art, technology, drama and singing."

An Olympic torch relay involving all the schools in Northampton, was launched by Derek Redmond on Wednesday (see pages 4 & 5) and will run until Wednesday, July 11.

Celebration as cancer appeal hits £1m mark

The Chronicle & Echo and Macmillan Cancer Support's charity appeal has hit the £1 million mark.

£1,057,189 is the current total raised towards the £1.55 million needed to fund the new haematology unit at Northampton General Hospital. The money has been raised from a variety of events held by Macmillan, the Chron and residents across Northamptonshire over the last year-and-a-half.

Northamptonshire fund-raising manager for Macmillan, Cherida Plumb, said: "It's brilliant news that we have hit the £1 million mark. We are now two-thirds of the way there and we couldn't have done this without all of the support we have had from people.

"No matter how much or how little has been raised or donated by individuals, every penny has counted and helped us to reach this total."

Fund-raising efforts have included cake sales, gigs, fayres, golf competitions, sponsored sporting events, the Cycle for Cynthia event, Chron's Kitchen, Strictly Chron Dancing and coffee mornings.

Cherida Plumb added: "Although we have hit a milestone we need to push on because it's vital that we raise the other £500,000 before the end of the year when the campaign ends.

"We want to encourage people to keep holding events for the appeal and to continue to support us."

There is still time for residents to sign up to take part in the Castle Ashby walk on Sunday, which will raise more funds for the campaign.

For more information or to sign up to take part visit www.macmillan.org.uk

The new blood cancer unit will officially open at the hospital at the end of September.

Cash grant for young footballers

ENGLAND may be out of Euro 2012, but grassroots football in Northampton is going from strength to strength with the award of a £5,000 Grow the Game Grant from the UK's largest sports charity.

The Football Foundation Grant will allow FFA (Football For All) to create and manage nine new male, female and mixed teams, ranging from under-seven to under-18, in the next two years as well as 18 new coaching roles incorporating the most up-to-date FA specified qualifications.

Nationally, Grow the Game has awarded 894 separate grants worth £4,354,926 to grassroots clubs, a move which could see the creation of 3,716 new teams competing in FA-affiliated leagues equivalent to 70,489 new players participating each week. Delaney Fifield, chairman of Football for All, said: "We are a community-based grassroots club with high hopes to improve the quantity and quality of football provision in Northamptonshire for all youngsters wishing to take part. Football needs them as much as they need us, because they are our next generation and beyond, and happily for FFA the Football Foundation will help us fulfil their dreams."

Paul Thorogood, chief executive of the Football Foundation, said: "I congratulate FFA (Football For All) for receiving this Grow the Game grant, which will increase sport participation and support football development in the region. I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Northamptonshire FA for their help in making this happen."

For details about the Football Foundation, visit www.footballfoundation.org.uk. Meanwhile, FFA is recruiting coaches and assistant coaches for their new teams. For more information, please contact Mr Fifield on 07786825492 or email info@ffaclubs.com.

Fair brings jobs hopes

IT is hoped hundreds of people will have secured new jobs after queuing to get into a packed jobs fair which was held in Northampton.

The MP for Northampton North, Michael Ellis, organised the event, which saw 40 firms from across the town attempt to find new employees.

Mr Ellis said: "It was incredible. We had people queuing at the doors before we even opened. People are clearly deeply motivated to get work and companies across Northampton have clearly got jobs to offer."

Among the busiest stands at the event were those for Waitrose, Church's Shoes and Carlsberg.

Marie Castle, from Waitrose, which was recruiting people for stores across the area as well as at its headquarters, said: "We were amazed by the number of people we had making inquiries. It's great that people are so keen to work for us."

Julie Stevenson, from Church's Shoes, who were looking for new apprentices, added: "The response was incredible and I think people have been surprised how many jobs there are available."

"A lot of people were particularly interested in the shoe industry, because of its history in Northampton, and things are going very well for us as a business."

There were several hundred jobs on offer during the event, which was held at The University of Northampton.

Throughout the day, seminars were also held to help people looking for jobs with tips on interviews and advice on how to write CVs.

Daniel Poole, the recruitment manager for Carlsberg, said: "We were really impressed with the range of skills people had. We had people talking to us about positions in areas including IT, finance and human resources as well as the brewery."

The hundreds of job seekers who attended the event said they were also impressed with the range of jobs on offer, with many hoping to find new work.

Grant Filer, from The Mounts, said: "I found a lot of job opportunities that I'd not previously thought about and I've been very impressed by the number of jobs on offer."

Following the success of the event, Mr Ellis is now considering holding another jobs fair in the town in the future.

Scheme launched

UNEMPLOYED young people in Northamptonshire will benefit from a new £1 million employment scheme, being launched by the Big Lottery Fund.

The county is one of 21 areas in the country to be given a share of £100 million to tackle unemployment among 18 to 24-year-olds.

The Talent Match programme, which guarantees at least £1 million of investment in Northamptonshire, will involve charities, local councils, employers and colleges working together to draw up proposals on how they will use the funding to match young peoples' talents with job opportunities.

Nat Sloane, England chairman of the Big Lottery Fund, said: "I am positive that Talent Match, and what we learn from it, will provide the evidence the country needs to help many more young people more effectively in the future."

Entertainment

Join in the Games

CROWDS of around 8,000 people are expected in Northampton as a £1.2 million Olympics-inspired show visits the town.

Set on a stage designed as a giant games board, to a backdrop of two large video screens and flanked all around by fire and fireworks, Games Time arrives at Delapre Park on Saturday.

The show is funded by Legacy Trust UK, a charity set up to leave an arts and culture legacy from the 2012 London Games.

More than 100 local people will perform alongside the professional entertainers to a crowd expected to top 8,000.

Four different-coloured teams will battle it out for supremacy on stage.

Leading the packs are mythical beasts, including a minotaur, a chimera, a dragon, and a phoenix, selected for their magical qualities and giving each team an identifiable characteristic.

They accompany more traditional board game pieces, including kings, queens and counters.

Games Time was the brainchild of Stephen Munn, the chief executive of Derby-based Déda Producing, who has brought together luminaries in the fields of contemporary dance, large-scale costume making and pyrotechnics to produce "a visually stunning show."

The show will start at 9.30pm on Saturday and the doors will open at 8.30pm. Admission is free.

A grown up little car

THE backroom boys who decide how much their company can charge for a car must have burned the midnight oil with the newest Skoda.

The Citigo is the latest model in a line-up that last year appealed to more buyers across the world (and here in the UK) than ever and is expanding further with this new mid-size hatchback.

So, the pricing team must have been getting something right, along with the people who design and engineer the cars.

With the Citigo they were faced with a problem; their new baby is pretty much identical in looks to the new Volkswagen Up (and Seat's Mii, for that matter).

It doesn't take a marketing genius to fathom that Skoda, however much the brand is loved by owners (and it is, in spades) simply can't charge as much as VW can for the same car with a different badge.

Which ought to make the Skoda versions of the VW Group's new little car a bargain... and it does. You won't save a fortune by choosing the Skoda, but every pound counts.

You can get into (as they say) a Citigo for £7,630, while the cheapest Up is £7,995. That's enough difference to pay for the first year's insurance on the Skoda, at least for older buyers looking to downsize to something more suburban-friendly.

And don't forget that Skoda owners regularly top the polls as most satisfied with their purchase.

But what about the Citigo, you ask? Well, it ranks with the Up (surprise, surprise) as the most grown-up little car I've driven. It really does feel as though the designers took a bigger car and drew out some air, to shrink it.

They took care to leave room for adults in the back and build in a boot that's deeper than you might expect in a car this tidily.

There are two engines on offer; or rather the same engaging three-cylinder unit with the choice of two power outputs. The less energetic one is fine in town, and passable on the open road. But you do notice the difference when you put your foot down to pass, making the £390 price hike worth the extra cash.

The Elegance trim level on the test car included alloy wheels, sat nav and info system, electrically-adjusted door mirrors and even heated front seats.

There are lots of option packs to tempt you, from an ashtray at £40 (!) to a £300 safety system that brakes the car at low speed if it senses an imminent collision.

It felt odd on test (aiming at a polystyrene block) but it worked!

Our REPUTATION is your GUARANTEE!

Boothroyd delighted as Hackett signs on COBBLERS boss Aidy Boothroyd has spoken of his delight at the signing of former Oxford United, Hearts and Millwall winger Chris Hackett.

The player will join Northampton Town on a two-year contract with effect from August 1 2012.

Hackett started his career with Oxford where he made his debut in April 2000.

In January 2006 he joined Scottish Premier League club Hearts in a £20,000 deal, but just eight months later he signed for Millwall.

He was a key part of their promotion campaign via the play-offs in 10.

While with Millwall, he enjoyed loan spells with Exeter City and Wycombe Wanderers, before being released from the New Den at the end of last season.

“Chris is a signing I am very pleased to make,” said boss Aidy Boothroyd.

“He is someone I have tracked for a while and is another player who has played regularly at a higher level. He has a very good pedigree, and he will bring experience, pace and guile to the squad.

“I am very much looking forward to working with him and like the other players who have come in so far this summer, I am sure he will prove a good signing for us.”

Meanwhile, Cardiff City will be missing as many as 10 senior players through international duty when they take on the Cobblers in the first round of the Capital One Cup at Sixfields next month.

The first-round tie, scheduled for Tuesday August 14, is the first game of the season for both teams, but takes place the day after a huge Cardiff contingent head off to join up with their national sides.

Aron Gunnarsson was Iceland’s captain in their last international, a friendly against France before the Euro 2012 Championships, and he flies to Reykjavik for a friendly against the Faroe Isles that week.

Wales manager Chris Coleman could include Darcy Blake, Robert Earnshaw and potentially Ben Turner for their home match against Bosnia, while Scotland may call up Kenny Miller, Don Cowie, goalkeeper David Marshall and Kevin McNaughton for their clash with Australia.

Filip Kiss could be considered by Slovakia, who play in Denmark, and Ireland manager Giovanni Trapattoni could call up striker Joe Mason for the game in Serbia as he plans for the 2014 World Cup qualifiers.

GOT HIS MAN – Aidy Boothroyd was a happy man after Chris Hackett agreed to sign a two-year contract at Sixfields

County opt for change

DAVID CAPEL was replaced as head coach at Northamptonshire because there was a need to “freshen things up” according to chief executive David Smith.

Capel was removed from his post with immediate effect on Tuesday and while Smith paid tribute to the work he’s done, he also indicated that the club’s hierarchy felt the time was right to switch things around.

He said: “David’s been in the job for six years and he’s left a legacy of a number of talented young players at the club and he’s got plenty to hold his head up about and to be proud of.

“But we felt it was time to make a change and with player retention and recruitment issues set to come up at the end of the season, we didn’t think it was right to have a coach making those decisions who wouldn’t be here.”

As for why Capel was relieved of his job, Smith indicated there were a myriad of reasons.

He added: “Our Twenty20 campaign has been disappointing but it was not just to do with that.

“It was more of an all-round decision concerning everything to do with the cricket side of things.

“We’ve taken the view that we need to freshen things up and that we had to act now.”

Capel’s vacated role will be taken by David Ripley, who had been in charge of the Academy and second XI.
